Dear Parents

Please note:

If your child is showing at least one of the COVID19 symptoms they MUST NOT attend school and any siblings MUST NOT attend school. The whole household must self-isolate and you must book a test. You must have the test within the first 5 days of having symptoms.

Your household must continue to self-isolate until you either receive a negative test result or until the isolation period is complete. This is 10 days for the child showing symptoms and 14 days for the rest of the family.

If anyone else in the household develops symptoms, they must also have a test – even if the original person's test was negative.

It is currently very hard to book a test and we understand this.

If you are finding it hard to book a test and your child feels better, they still cannot return to school until they have received a negative test result or have completed the isolation period.

Thank you for your understanding.

It is important we are all looking after each other.

Yours sincerely

Helen Frampton
